Make a Full Backup - We cannot stress enough how important it is to always take a full backup before attempting any kind of upgrade/install. Both for WHMCS and any other software you use. A full backup should be taken of both the WHMCS files and the database.

PLEASE READ ALL THE ENCLOSED INSTRUCTIONS

1. Installation Instructions

Language Files

If a language you operate in is not available as standard, then you can create your own translation. Here's how:

1. You will find the language file in this directory modules > addons > ClientLimitation > lang
2. Begin by opening an existing language file
3. Save this file with a new name - the name should be the same name of the language file in your admin language folder in WHMCS - the name should only consist of a-z0-9 characters and end with the extension ".php"
4. Once the file has been created, you can then begin going through and translating the lines within it
An example line is as follows - you should only change the part in bold:

$_ADDONLANG['addonname'] = "Addon Name";

Remember: After upgrading, your browser may still display cached versions of the previous files. So if you get any display issues or inconsistencies, always try clearing your cache first, both in your browser, and the WHMCS templates cache (templates_c folder files)

2. Bug Reports and Feature Requests

All of our support is done via our sites at https://www.whmcsservices.com/members/submitticket.php

I've dedicated countless hours to its development and debugging, but, as with any other module, it will contain some bugs, misspellings, or difficulties. If you find any error please report them to http://bug.whmcsservices.com

I'm always open to any suggestions and comments on the module

Please contact us anytime at our site. If you require further assistance, we'll be glad to help or you can go to http://www.whmcsservices.com/members

Lastly, I am constantly updating the module and fixing bugs. If you have any suggestion, feel free to poster at http://requests.whmcsservices.com

We also all wish to thank everyone who has sent us emails. Please continue to do so for future versions in order to help make our product the best WHMCS Services ever! Please vote the Addon at WHMCS Marketplace. Your feedback is essential for us!
